Kiu Chan Times 30: Moments Captured by a Photojournalist

Mr. Chan is a retired photojournalist from Hong Kong. He started as a darkroom assistant/junior photographer with the Hong Kong Tiger Standard (now known as The Standard), and worked his way up to the chief photographer position at South China Morning Post. During a career that spanned more than three decades, he won over 30 international press picture awards, earning him the status of a master in photojournalism.

The photographs in the book and the exhibition reveal heart throbbing natural disasters, depressing sights of the refugee influx, and intimate stories of life in Hong Kong. These moments captured by Mr. Chan invariably bring you back to the time period of the 60's through the 90's.

A Commemorative Book to Treasure Lilian To: A Life of Devotion

To commemorate the first anniversary of the passing of Mrs. Lilian To, former Chief Executive Officer of S.U.C.C.E.S.S., S.U.C.C.E.S.S. has published a special book Lilian To: A Life of Devotion.

The book is a collection of over 100 articles about Lilian. The contributors include her high school classmates, colleagues and her family, namely her husband, Mr. Chi-Tat To, and sons Daniel and Nathan. There are personal glimpses into Lilian's high school years, her aspirations during university, family life, her accomplishments, and the condolences upon her passing. Every article was written from the heart and is a testimony to Lilian's abundant life.

The book is 136 pages, bi-lingual in English and Chinese and printed in full colour.

Lilian To: A Life of Devotion can be purchased for $25 a copy at the S.U.C.C.E.S.S. offices in Chinatown, Richmond, Burnaby, Tricity, Simon K.Y. Lee Seniors Care Centre, and CCM Centre at Crystal Mall in Burnaby. There will also be a booth at the Walk with the Dragon at Stanley Park on July 16. Proceeds from the book will go to supporting S.U.C.C.E.S.S.'s social services and programs.

Lilian devoted her love to serve new immigrants and the community. Despite her departure, her legacy lives on.

Ordinary Faces of Hong Kong and Macau:

Through the Lens of William Chee-keung Wong

Hong Kong is famous for its ever-changing faces. Since the influx of population in the 1950s, old buildings have been constantly torn down to give way to modern skyscrapers and wider thoroughfares. Scenes so commonplace of yesteryears are easily forgotten and lost into oblivion.

The late Mr. William Chee-keung Wong, an accomplished media worker, had captured the sights and sounds of old Hong Kong for us. As an amateur photographer, he walked through the streets and alleys of the city after work and took pictures of scenes that were often left unnoticed by city folks.

With the concerted efforts of his wife, friends and S.U.C.C.E.S.S., Ordinary Faces of Hong Kong and Macau: Through the Lens of William Chee-keung Wong was published. The album consists of 81 pictures taken by Mr. Wong from the 1970's to the 1990's. They include old tenement houses, shop-fronts of traditional grocery stores, market stalls, pawn shops, etc. – scenes that rarely exist nowadays and will definitely bring back fond memories to those who have grown up with them.

Dare to Climb the Pinnacle: The Struggles of a Hard-of-Hearing Man

Dare to Climb the Pinnacle is a story of quiet heroism. The authors, Lawrence Lee and his mother, Kung Wah Lee, wrote this book to encourage and support hard-of-hearing people everywhere. They wish to inspire readers, particularly young people, to approach life with optimism and confidence.

At the age of two, Lawrence lost his hearing after suffering a serious illness. After the initial shock, the family quickly rallied and made extraordinary efforts to ensure Lawrence would gain the skills and confidence to lead an independent, meaningful life. From kindergarten to high school, Lawrence was able to attend regular school. At 13, he decided to leave his home in Hong Kong to attend boarding school in England. His many accomplishments include a Bachelor's Degree of Science in Accounting and Financial Analysis, a Master Degree in Business Administration, a Certified Management Accountant and a professional diploma in Information Technology.
